A PIONEER'S STORY

EARLY HISTORY OF CITY AS WRITTEN BY AN OLD SETTLER.

WRITES OF LADIES HERE

At That Time, Who Attended Church in the Old Court House Building.

According to promise, I will give you a short sketch about the ladies I saw sitting on those seats on the west side of the court house at church the day that Brother Turner preached. As I have told you heretofore, the ladies were all seated together. When a young man would bring his best girl into the house she would take her seat unattended among the women and he would take his seat on the men's side. All of the old-timers will remember that Joseph E. Alexander was sheriff of Nodaway county at that time, and had quite a family of girls—Angeline, Elizabeth, Mary, Emma and Lenora. Angeline married Hanson Ware, Elizabeth married James R. Ford, Mary married Thomas Vandervoort, Emma married Theodore F. Jones, and Lenora married Judge John C. Curfman, father of Ed and Roy Curfman, proprietors of the Curfman Lumber company of North Main street. Mrs. B. G. Ford sat in that group with her three daughters, Dora, Lida and Kate. Dora afterward married H. C. French, Lida married Ed Hull, and Kate married J. D. Gaddis. I next noticed the Prather girls, Mary, Vance, Henrietta and Tommie. Many Vance afterward married Ed McMillan, who has been in the employ of the F. M. Petty store for many years; Henrietta married George Davis, the old hack man that brought me to Maryville. Tommie married William B. Roseberry, who was afterward accidentally shot and killed while he and his wife were crossing the 102 river in a buggy—I think at the Indian Bend, a little north of James M. Stephenson's farm. I then noticed two sisters sitting together, Louise Conrad and Dora Conrad, sisters of George and Fennimore Conrad, both now living in Maryville. Louise afterward married Levi Taylor and Dora married Henry Eckert, now a resident of West Seventh street. Close by sat Mrs. William C. Orear and daughter, Laura, who afterward married Thaddeus K. Beal. In that group also sat Sarah, Louisa and Rachel Jackson. Sarah afterward married Logan Holt; Louisa married William E. Trueblood and Rachel married James H. Bentley. Miss Emma Cannon sat in that group. Also Susie and Mary Tignor. Susie married Pervius Ashford, brother of Wm. D. and Jacob M. Ashford of Maryville; Mary married Charles C. Dittimer. They were daughters of William Tignor, who made furniture. His shop and residence were in the block east of John W. Herren's residence, on East First street. He had an old fashioned truning lathe and made all kinds of furniture.

The Jackson girls were sisters of Joseph Jackson, Sr., president of the First National bank of Maryville. Close by sat Mrs. Alexander Clelland and two daughters, Casander and Celia. Casander married John S. Wood, now of Elmo, and Celia married a man by the name of West. Laura Jester also was seated there. She afterward married Howard McCommon, now a resident of our city. Margaret and Amanda Allen were also there. Margaret afterward married John J. Kelley and Amanda married Albert T. Ellis. Serepta and Lucinda Davis were also there. Serepta married H. H. Geiger, or "Tip" Geiger, as he was known, and Lucinda married a Dr. Emmons. Niece Saunders afterward married John Collett, now a resident of Graham, who kept a blacksmith shop where the Maryville National bank now stands. Lydia and Geneva Churchill also had seats there. Lydia married W. H. Herbert and Geneva married Matt Lahr, now of this city. Mrs. Alonzo Thompson was also present. Alonzo Thompson was at that time state auditor, but still held his residence here, and Mrs. Roseberry, wife of Matthew G. Roseberry, who was at that time associated with Albert P. Morehouse in the real estate business. Although somewhat abashed, I cast my eyes a little farther to the southwest corner and behold, there sat Aunt Winnie Stinson. She was the only colored woman in the house, I think, and any history without her name I would consider incomplete. The girls were greatly in the ascendency, as the boys from the army had not yet returned. I have often thought, and even remarked, that in all my travels I had never seen as many pretty, blushing girls as sat in the court house that day. They all wore blue and white sunbonnets, plain calico and gingham dresses. As soon as each girl was seated she would remove her bonnet and hold it in her lap. They needed no law to compel them to remove their headgear, as is so often the case now. They all seemed shy, which only made them appear more beautiful. Well, there is a solution of this matter, and in my own mind I think I have solved it. During the four years previous every young man of marriageable age had either gone into the army or emigrated west, so that deprived them of any gentlemen associates. Well, Cooper Gooden says that I am correct, so you all know that he is an expert in that respect. Well, I am going to tell you that I had a seat where I could see nearly all of their faces. But if I happened to catch their countenances, they were sure to blush, and that is something you seldom see now. One thing is sure, quite a number of young men, that very day picked out of that blushing group of girls their future partners for life. It was a beautiful sight to see their long braided or flowing hair hanging over their well rounded shoulders, and had I or any of those young men there that day mentioned harem scarum hobble skirt to either of those girls we would have been kicked into the middle of the street, and they would have been justified in doing it.

Next week I will give you a description of the second story of the court house and jail.

WINS IN THE NINTH

COMETS DEFEATED IN THE LAST INNING BY ERRORS.

STILL IN FOURTH PLACE

Nebraska City Won from Falls City and Clarinda is Still Winning.

With the score 2 and 2, Johnson was about ready to cut loose his goat and hand it over to Maryville, when Sackett blew up with two errors in the ninth which should have been easy outs. The result was four scores for Shenandoah before they could be retired.

Oswalt was working right and the game should have been his. The first two innings were scoreless. Johnson started out badly in the first, and with two down filled the bases. It looked like at least one or two scores with Black at the bat, but he flied out to short.

The Comets started in the third. Dietz flied to first, Walsh singled and scored a moment later on Wintz's two-bagger. DeCamp sacrificed and Black went to first on Campbell's error, Wintz scoring. Black was caught at second trying to steal. Shenandoah evened up in the next inning. Simmons flied out to Black. Hagerty tripled and scored after Wells' fly to DeCamp had been caught. Castle singled and Campbell tripled, giving Shenandoah their second score. Denison flied out to third. The next four and a half innings continued the fight with the Comets showing up to a little better advantage than the Oaks, neither side, however, being able to tally.

With the opening of the ninth Campbell was cut off at first. Sackett booted Denison's grounder around, allowing him to perch safely on first. Ellis was hit by Oswalt. Sackett spoiled a fine chance for a double by letting Johnson's grounder scoot between his legs. Denison scored. Atkinson flied to first. Oswalt was again unlucky, hitting Simmons. Hagerty singled to left, scoring Ellis. Wells' single to right brought in two runs, and the gate was finally closed by striking Castle out.

Notes.

Campbell made the play of the season yesterday and was cheered lustily by the fans, even though it dampened their hopes for the Comets. Wintz had already landed twice for long hits when he pounded the ball toward second at a lively clip. It looked safe for one and possibly two bases, but Campbell arrived just in time to lay his bare hand between the ball and the ground. He froze it, too.

Joe made a play which crowded Campbell's closely for first honors. Castle unexpectedly poked out a fast bunt toward third. Joe came in on it like lightning, grabbed it with his right paw in passing and shot it to first a hand's breadth ahead of Cattle.

Still in the second division.

Every time Oswalt came to bat there were two down. He landed on first twice out of four times.

Had Sackett played his ninth inning chances safely, and giving Shenandoah the benefit of holding us down in the last half, the tenth inning would have brought our heavy batters up. It looked pretty safe.

We'll put Johnson in the lose column yet.

Delair was released Tuesday by the Comets.

MRS. MILLER DEAD

WAS MOTHER OF MRS. ODA HUBBELL, KILLED NOVEMBER 20.

DIED OF BROKEN HEART

Funeral Services at Barnard Wednesday Morning at 9:30 o'Clock, in the Church of Christ.

Mrs. Delila Miller passed away at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning at her home, at West Second and Walnut streets, after an illness dating from Sunday night, November 20, when her daughter, son-in-law and their two little children were murdered and their bodies burned with their home, on her farm, two miles east of Barnard.

Mrs. Miller had not been known to smile since the awful tragedy, probably the most atrocious ever committed in this part of the country. Her appearance changed in a day from that of a well preserved woman of 50 years, who is happy in the goodness of her children, to a woman whose every look denoted dumb despair. Tears seldom came to her relief and her silent grief soon produced a malady that medicine could not reach. It is the belief of her physicians that she has been dying daily since the murder of her daughter's family, Mr. and Mrs. Oda Hubbell, and their two little children, Jessie and Welton, for which Hez Rasco sits under sentence of death in the Nodaway county jail.

Mrs. Miller's maiden name was Delila Susan Rhoades. She was born fifty-two years ago the 19th of January, near Guilford, this county. At the age of 21 she was married to Isaac G. Miller, a farmer of the same neighborhood. They lived near Guilford during his life time. He died six years ago last December. Two years ago she purchased a farm two miles east of Barnard and lived there a year. One year ago she rented the place to her son-in-law, Oda Hubbell, and moved to Maryville with her family.

She is Survived by eight children—Bert Miller of Nisbet, N. D.; Ivie Miller, at home; Mrs. Marvin Boyles of Barnard, Gertrude, Rebecca, Bertha, Roy and Joe, at home. Also her mother, Mrs. Eliza Rhodes of Guilford; a sister, Mrs. S. K. Hubbell of Beggs, Okla., and three brothers, John Rhoades, Dick and Verna Rhoades, all of Guilford.

The funeral services will be held in the Church of Christ of Barnard, Wednesday morning, at 9:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Leslie Cobb of Hopkins. Mrs. Miller had been a member of that church for fifteen years having united with the church with her husband. She was a good, true Christian woman. Her only regret during her illness was that she could not live to give the care and attention her younger children are in need of. They have the sincere sympathy of both strangers and friends in their sorrow.

Miss Edith Kime returned to her home in Hopkins from a several days' visit with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Busby, living southeast of Maryville.

Guessing at Glasses

Is more dangerous than guessing at most anything else in the world. If relief from the errors of vision is to come through the wearing of glasses, it is all important that those glasses shall be adjusted according to the measurements of the most modern appliances. Choosing glasses by simply trying them on cannot be too strongly condemned. Absolute accuracy is essential, and absolute accuracy is what we offer you. Call any day you can, and we will give you our immediate and undivided attention.

and be happy the rest of your life. There's no satisfaction like that born of the knowledge that you have a home of your own. And if you'll follow our advice and BUILD NOW, you will always be satisfied that you exercised good judgment. We believe this after watching the lumber market for years. Not in years have we been able to offer such excellent grades for all classes of construction—lumber of real quality. This is not bargain counter lumber, for it has a fixed market value, but by keeping pace with the times and buying only from manufacturers who mill with the most improved machinery we have secured absolutely the best values our money could buy. THEATER TO HAVE GLASS CURTAIN

Weighs 27 Tons and Can Be Lowered In Seven Seconds.

PLAYHOUSE COST $8,000,000

Twenty-five Hundred Square Feet of Glass Mosaic In the Curtain—Divided Into Two Hundred Panels, Each Three Feet Square, For Shipment. Its Construction a Huge Undertaking.

A glass curtain weighing nearly thirty tons is the latest thing in theatrical construction and in fire protection. This curtain was made in New York, but it is destined for the new $8,000,000 theater in the City of Mexico.

The National theater in the City of Mexico, now approaching completion, will be a beautiful addition to the works of art on this continent, and this curtain will not be the least of its beauties. The theater, in fact, will be one of the most important and beautiful structures in the world.

The building is constructed entirely of white marble, much of which has been supplied from the quarries of Mexico and the remainder from Carrara. It occupies a central location in the Alameda, or park, its four approaches following the parabolical lines employed in the general architectural design of the structure.

Beautiful Structure.

Over $8,000,000 in gold will have been expended upon the theater before it is complete, a large part of which has been used for material and labor in Mexico, that so far as possible the nation shall benefit. Its seating capacity is about 8,000, and the building, with its ramps, fountains and gardens, covers an area of five acres, or more than two of our city blocks.

This theater is one of a number of public buildings which have been designed for the substantial improvement and adornment of the City of Mexico to be not only a fitting home for Mexican dramatic art, but as a perpetual monument to the progress of the republic under the wise administration of its venerable president.

Senor Adamo Boari, the distinguished architect of the City of Mexico, devoted much time and thought to the selection of a suitable curtain which must not only be fireproof, but decorative in character. Nature had already provided a scene which assisted him in the choice of an appropriate picture for this part of the work, and he determined to depict the perpetual snow capped peaks of Iztaccihauti and Popocatepeti rising thousands of feet into the cloudless sky, a veritable poem of light.

Various attempts were made with paints, with Bohemian and Venetian glass, but without success until it was suggested that a mosaic curtain of glass would combine safety against fire with the decorative merits of a painting to express the romantic story of the two volcanoes.

Glass Made Especially.

The magnitude of the undertaking may be appreciated when it is stated that the curtain contains more than 2,500 square feet of glass mosaic and weighs twenty-seven tons. To insure its safe transportation from the studios to the City of Mexico it has been divided into 200 panels, each three feet square, containing nearly 1,000,000 pieces of favrile glass, which have been inlaid into a concrete composition impervious alike to heat and moisture.

The glass was made especially for this particular work. Twenty mosaic workers have been continuously employed in its construction for a period of over fifteen months.

The curtain will be operated by hydraulic pressure and the time required to raise or lower it seven seconds.

NEW CLERK OF THE HOUSE.

Jerry South Caught Two Murderers and Took Them to a Convention.

Jerry South of Arkansas, chief clerk of the house of representatives at Washington, has a reputation in his own neighborhood.

It was Jerry who while on his way to an Arkansas state convention to which he was a delegate came face to face with William and George Taylor, who were wanted for killing Gus Weeks and his entire family and burning the bodies in a haystack. Jerry got out his gun and took the Taylor brothers prisoners.

There was a $10,000 reward out for their capture. Jerry wanted the reward, but he also wanted to attend the convention, so he took the murderers along with him. For the three days that the convention lasted Jerry and his prisoners sat side by side in the convention hall. Jerry with his hand on his cocked revolver most of the time.

The murderers did not enjoy the convention very much. When it was over Jerry took them to jail, collected the $10,000 and went back to his farm.

RARE TREASURES OF THE INDIANS

Smithsonian Institution Gets Four Sacred Osage Packages.

HOLIEST FETISH OF THE TRIBE

They Are Generally Buried With Their "Keepers"—Tattooing Apparatus and Materials Used—Also Circlet of Human Scalps Among the Contents of Bundles.

Officials of the bureau of American ethnology of the Smithsonian institution at Washington are highly pleased over an addition which they have just made to their collection and which they regard as one of their choicest treasures. This acquisition comprises four sacred bundles or packs of the Osage Indians, very few of which have ever been obtained by scientists, as they are generally buried with their "keepers."

These sacred bundles are just as precious from a religious standpoint to the Indian as they are from a scientific standpoint to the ethnologist and are extremely hard to obtain. They represent the holiest fetish of a tribe, and so zealously are they guarded from any profanation that they are put in the charge of a special priest or medicine man, who keeps them carefully hidden. At certain periods they are opened and the contents worshiped amid the most elaborate ceremonies, but even at these times only the chosen men of the tribe are allowed to see the strangely assorted articles that are kept in the bundles.

How They Were Secured.

The bundles were secured for the National museum by Francis La Fleshe, an educated Omaha Indian, who is in the employ of the bureau of American ethnology. While at work in Oklahoma he learned of the existence of such bundles and immediately opened negotiations with the Indian to whose care they had been intrusted. After exercising considerable diplomacy he succeeded in persuading the Indian to part with them and took them to Washington and turned them over to the bureau of ethnology.

One of these was opened with much care by Dr. Walter Hough, one of the curators of the National museum. Dr. Hough found the outside wrapping or sack to be made of a rare Indian fabric woven of the silky brow hair of the buffalo. This was bound with a buckskin band decorated with human scalps and the leg of an eagle. Inside this was a buckskin bag, and inside that a haversack made of a material resembling Chinese matting.

Most Sacred Object.

In this haversack were a pipe decorated with scalps, a tobacco bag, a braided cord made of woolen fabric and a bundle of buffalo bladders bound with a thong ornamented with scalps, and one other bundle, which was the most important of all, for it represented the "holy of holies." This bundle was a buckskin case, to which was bound a buckskin object resembling a head band. Inside this bundle was found the most sacred object of the pack—the body of a hawk, which had been mummified and then painted a brilliant vermilion and green. Attached to the tail was a circlet of human scalps. The body was suspended by a braided band made of woolen fabrics which evidently had been obtained by the tribe through trade with other Indians.

One of the three other bundles was found to contain the tattooing apparatus and materials used by the Osage Indians, all of which are regarded as sacred, as the tattooing is a religious ceremony. The other two packs were similar to the one described, but the articles each contained were different.

HE HID IN JAIL.

Served Term For Burglary to Avoid Arrest For Safe Blowing.

After having broken into a house and obtained imprisonment in the Minneapolis jail for ten months to escape arrest for blowing a safe Harry Bowman was identified by a deputy sheriff just as his term was expiring.

Bowman, it is charged, blew the safe of the Farmers' Savings bank of Carroll, Ia., Oct. 9, 1909. He was aided by Johnny Barden, who was shot a year ago in Chicago while attempting to avoid arrest.

The two escaped from the Carroll bank with $3,500. Authorities learned they were hiding in Chicago. Officers found Barden, alias "Southern Dan," alias "Texas King," shaving in a room of the house they occupied, while Bowman was eating supper in the kitchen. When the officers attempted to arrest Barden he hurled a chair at them and jumped through the window, but a shot brought him down dead. In the confusion Bowman escaped.

After traversing the country under various disguises and aliases Bowman went to Minneapolis. Narrow escapes from arrest drove him to desperation. The death of Barden preyed on his mind. Finally he determined to hide in jail, so he broke into a house and gave himself up.

Graceful and Attractive Women.

If you are thin and want to be plump; if you have wrinkles in your face that you are not proud of, if your skin is sallow or subject to pimples or blackheads take Mi-o-na stomach tablets for two weeks and notice the change.

Nine-tenths of the thin people are thin because the stomach is not active; it is not mixing thoroughly with the natural digestive juices the food put into it, and in consequence is not extracting from the food enough nourishing matter for the blood to distribute to every part of the body. If the stomach does not do its work properly the nourishment in the food you eat is passed along without giving to the body any flesh building elements.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets quickly build up the stomach so that it extracts from the food all the elements necessary to form good solid flesh.

If you are thin try a two weeks' treatment of Mi-o-na stomach tablets; two with each meal will work wonders.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets are guaranteed to cure indigestion, acute or chronic, or money back. Sold by the Orear-Henry Drug company and druggists everywhere at 50 cents a box.

Free Child's Remedy

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow a pill or a tablet, and that to "break them in half and crush them" is an annoyance; that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little one's stomach.

Any mother who will take the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the offer of a free trial bottle is open to any mother who has not yet used it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want, you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing, the free sample being simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin on it. Mrs. L. Davis of 187 W. Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Belford, 1710 Coke street, Louisville, Ky., both started with a free sample and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is adapted to all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thoroughly effective. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and women and old folks, who need something pure, mild and natural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains tonic properties. Use it for the most stubborn constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.509 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

TRAGIC CAREER OF J. H. TILLMAN

Once Remarkably Successful, He Died In Want.

HE SHOT AN UNARMED MAN.

After That People Shunned Him and Remorse Got at Him—His Telegram Rebuking Colonel Roosevelt—Church Would Not Receive Him Into the Ministry.

James H. Tillman, ex-lieutenant governor of South Carolina, who died of tuberculosis recently at Asheville, N. C., came into national prominence on Jan. 15, 1903, when he shot and killed N. G. Gonzales, editor of the Columbia State, because of scathing denunciations printed in that newspaper.

He was at one time an officer of the United States army, and his death brought to a close a career marked by tumultuous passion and ability of no mean order. One of his uncles was an officer of the famous Palmetto regiment in the Mexican war and was killed in the assault on the castle of Chapultepec while planting the colors on the walls of the fortress. Another was the first man over the third line of the Federal intrenchments at Franklin and captured the battleflag of an Ohio regiment. Still another uncle is Senator B. R. Tillman, and his father, George D. Tillman, served a term in congress.

At twenty-eight he was commissioned colonel of volunteers, and he was the youngest man to reach that rank in the Spanish war. He was a young man when he was made lieutenant governor. Up to the day of the shooting everything to which he had turned his hand came out well. His seemed to be one of those magnetic personalities that could not be held down. He had a promising law practice. He had hosts of friends, who liked and respected him.

Telegram to Roosevelt.

It was in a burst of unrestrained passion that he sent his telegram to President Roosevelt in 1902 asking the president to withdraw his acceptance of Tillman's invitation to present a sword to Major Micah J. Jenkins of the rough riders. The president had just recalled an invitation to Senator Tillman to meet Prince Henry of Prussia on account of the fistic encounter between Senator Tillman and Senator McLaurin on the floor of the senate chamber in Washington.

It was while he was lieutenant governor that the incident of the Jenkins sword took place. It may be recalled that after all the turmoil and mud slinging in the matter poor Jenkins refused to accept the sword. He was in a fair way to be the sole substantial sufferer by the incident when one of the Gonzales brothers, proprietors of the Columbia State, undertook to raise a subscription to purchase another sword for him. This was done, and the presentation was made by the president in the course of his visit to the Charleston exposition. Tillman was said to have been particularly offended at the action of Gonzales.

Tillman contended that Gonzales had sent him a message saying that he (Gonzales) had made Tillman show the white feather twice before and would make him show it again. At all events for several days before the shooting occurred Tillman went around with two pistols. He said that secret information given him by his friends had convinced him that the editor would shoot him on sight.

Gonzales Was Unarmed.

Gonzales was not carrying a weapon when he was shot. He made no move to attack or provoke his assailant when their paths crossed at a street corner.

Tillman's trial lasted three weeks, and he was acquitted. It might have been expected that he would start in to make his career all over again. In the course of the trial his family showed every disposition of kindliness toward him. His uncle and wife were always with him. But the shooting and the memory of it must have preyed on his mind, for he was never the same man again. Then there were other circumstances that harassed him. Many people passed over to the other side of the street whenever they saw him approaching. It made him uncomfortable.

He started a boom for congress, but it fell through in a way that was not reminiscent of the successes of his previous political career. In 1904 he wanted to enter the ministry, hoping by this means to get away from the stigma which had attached itself to him. But the church would not receive him. More and more people put him under the ban. His relatives turned away, and finally his wife left him. He became impoverished, and when the end came he was in want.

WANTS UNIFORM MUZZLING LAWS

Government Expert Would Put an End to Rabies.

DISEASE IS NOT IMAGINARY.

Figures Show Efficacy of Pasteur Treatment—Some Cases Not Genuine—Clerk Almost Scared Himself to Death, but Dog Wasn't Mad.

An indication of the efficacy of the Pasteur treatment in the prevention of rabies is given in a bulletin on the subject by Dr. John R. Mohler, just issued by the department of agriculture at Washington. Speaking of the work of the Pasteur institute under state supervision in Atlanta, Ga., Dr. Mohler says that since its establishment in 1900 there have been 670 cases treated. Of those treated there were only two that died. During the same period there were 120 people bitten who took no subsequent treatment and of these twenty-nine died. It is hard, of course, to get the negative statistics in the case of people bitten and not taking the treatment, but the comparative figures are among the few available and are interesting.

The bulletin of Dr. Mohler deals with the history of the disease, the symptoms and treatment, and advocates a general dog muzzling law, which, he says, would largely reduce the fatalities from the disease if not wipe it out altogether.

Not Imaginary Ailment.

There are two cases cited in the report which the author says tend to indicate that the disease is not an imaginary ailment, though there can be cases in which the patient can work up a fine case of pseudo-rabies on imagination alone.

One of these was the case of a colored woman. She was twenty-eight years old and had been badly bitten by a collie dog, but the wounds afterward healed. Eighteen days afterward she developed symptoms of the disease. She did not know that the dog that bit her had died of rabies, and even after she was seriously ill at the hospital she did not connect the fact of having been bitten with her sickness. She grew rapidly worse with all the symptoms of the disease and died twenty-one days after the bites were inflicted. A postmortem showed that it undoubtedly was a case of rabies.

Symptoms Not Convincing.

On the other hand, a clerk in a dry goods store was bitten by a watchdog in the store on a Saturday. The wound was slight and was immediately cauterized. On the following Wednesday the clerk fainted at the counter and was sent to his home, while the dog was kept under observation.

Within two days the young man developed a case of rabies that was not only too soon after the bite, but was too conventional to be convincing to the physicians. He would roll himself in the bedclothes, bark like a dog and bite the pillow, shaking it like a rat.

At first it was impossible to attract his attention, though he would mumble and talk to himself. Finally when he was told that the dog that bit him was not mad, but was enjoying its usual health and appetite and that he had developed the symptoms entirely too soon, he commenced to realize that he had been making himself a victim of autosuggestion, and rapid recovery followed.

Nearly Scared to Death.

It developed that he had been reading up on rabies after he was bitten and nearly scared himself to death.

Dr. Mohler is strongly in favor of a general muzling of dogs and says that, while a federal muzzling order is impracticable, if all states would act in the matter the disease could be stamped out.

MAY GET FORTUNE FOR $750.

If Braman Dies Without Heirs Gallagher Will Get $50,000.

Robert Gallagher, a Boston attorney, has an opportunity to get $50,000 for the paltry sum of $750. The $50,000 is in the form of a trust fund left to Hammond Braman, clubman, by his father. Braman has become enmeshed in the bankruptcy courts. His creditors endeavored to get control of the trust fund, but this the court held was immune until its termination at the death of Braman; hence an auction at which the fund was sold for $750 to Gallagher. The creditors will receive the $750.

When Braman dies and in the event that he leaves no heir Gallagher gets the $50,000. Mr. Braman is thirty-five and Mr. Gallagher nearly sixty. The latter feels sure, though, that he will live to get the money.

Braman, who has been a Harvard student, banker and broker, is a well known figure about Boston. He was driven into bankruptcy after he had spent several uncomfortable days in jail, where he was sent for his failure to pay a judgment of $8,500 awarded to Benjamin Banks of Cambridge, who had been run down by his automobile. Braman has been twice married. He was divorced from his first wife in 1907. Later he figured in a sudden marriage with Miss Rose O'Neil, who was playing in a musical show.

GRANDMOTHERS' BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Color and Beauty of the Hair Preserved with a Harmless Remedy Made from Sage.

Druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are selling large quantities of sage for making old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair, making it fluffy and beautiful and restoring its natural color.

The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy.

The manufacturers of this remedy authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

BOY SCOUTS NOW NUMBER 500,000

Movement Spreading Rapidly and With Fine Results.

SOME "GOOD TURNS" THEY DO

Effect of Training to Be "Helpful to One Another, Courteous to Strangers and Aid to Women and Children." Social Leader Organizer of a Branch at Newport.

There are 500,000 boy scouts in America. While the boys are taught to get as much out of the woods as did Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer, the idea of a daily service is impressed upon them. They are first to be helpful to one another, courteous to strangers and helpful to women and children.

Recently in Twenty-third street, New York, a half blind old man was walking along near where construction work was being done. Pieces of lumber were being carried out of the building. Three youngsters, seeing the old man making his way feebly along and fearing he might be hurt, rushed up to him and helped him pass the dangerous spot. When a woman asked them if they were boy scouts they said: "Yes, indeed! This is the third good turn we have done today."

In Great Barrington, Conn., the boys are helping their fathers at business and are assisting aged women to cross the streets. Amesbury (Mass.) scouts pick up loose paper in the streets and thus prevent runaways. In Lowell, Mass., they replace signs in the street.

From Bristol, Tenn., reports show that the boys have done good work in stopping forest fires. In Springfield, Ill., the boys daily carry flowers to the sick in hospitals.

Woman Aids In Work.

Mrs. John Nicholas Brown of Newport, R. I., whose husband was a descendant of one of the founders of Brown university, has taken an energetic part in helping the formation of patrols and troops of Boy Scouts of America in Newport. She has a son, John Nicholas Brown, Jr., in whom there was much public interest following the death of his father several years ago.

Mrs. Brown, wealthy and influential, held in her home the meeting at which the Newport council of the Boy Scouts of America was organized. She invited many Newport citizens, and, knowing the "scout craft," she quickly convinced these men of the necessity of taking up the work. Many sons of wealthy residents are members and are taking part in the work in company with poor boys.

Colonel Roosevelt's Interest.

Colonel Roosevelt in an address at New Orleans said:

"I think that the boy scout movement is the greatest thing going. I believe in it thoroughly and have great hopes for its future. You do not know how much I would like to pitch in actively and help the work, but it is a physical impossibility. I want to see the movement a great success in this country. It is just what we need, and I will always be glad to help it along."

Jacob Riis Praises Work.

Jacob A. Riis has written a letter to the boys, in which he says:

"Tell the boys to be square, loyal and faithful. We have been fighting over men's rights till we have almost lost the note of duty that is the keynote of life, if it is to count. Let the boy scouts help us to recover it. The heritage of youth is strength. The duty of strength is to be kind, for so it is harnessed to God's work in his world; hence the good scout craft. It fills the day with cheer. When we have dutiful, loyal, square boys our men of tomorrow can be trusted to see the country through."

NEW DINING CAR SYSTEM.

Colored Waiters Eliminated—Conductor and Wife Serve Meals.

The Chicago and Northwestern railway has recently been trying out an innovation in its dining car service which thus far has brought most successful results, according to officials of the road. Negro waiters have been eliminated on the cafe parlor car operated between Chicago and Sioux City, Ia., on certain trains for the last six months, and in their places a white man and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Garnier, have been placed in complete charge of the car.

Mr. Garnier dispensed with the colored waiters and has himself acted as conductor and assistant waiter, while Mrs. Garnier has served as waitress.

Tramping Round Union of South Africa

A tremendous task is being undertaken by J. Scott, formerly of the Argyll and Sutherland highlanders, who has just arrived at Volksrust on a journey on foot around the Union of South Africa. He left Durban on Nov. 15 and since then has covered a distance of some 650 miles, including a detour into Zululand and Swaziland. The number of towns and postal offices he has visited on his tramp to date is 632. A Zulu boy accompanies him, carrying a traveler's kit containing hairdressers' accessories, with which the man is making his living on the way.

MILLIONAIRE HAS QUIT TRAMPING

Edwin A. Brown Now Knows How the Other Half Lives.

SUFFERED WITH THE POOREST

Rich Cousin of President of the New York Central Slept In Barns and Jails to Help the Homeless—Learned What to Do For Them.

Edwin A. Brown, "the millionaire tramp," cousin of W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central, announces that he will never wear overalls again. He is through seeing as a part of the show the seamy side of life, he says, and from now on, with the rich experience he has had in learning how the other half lives, he intends to carry on his work of providing municipal lodging houses by other means than "living the dog's life" himself.

Mr. Brown is a resident of Denver, where he is one of the city's largest real estate holders. With no thirst for greater wealth than he has, he has for years been trying to learn by actual experience the sufferings of men who are honest and willing to work and of others who are shiftless and almost worthless as a result possibly, he thinks, of the government's neglect.

Mr. Brown is known all over this country. His efforts as a "friend to the friendless" have been praised by President Taft, and one of the Denver man's treasured possessions is a letter from the president inquiring about his experiences in helping the homeless men of large cities.

His First Job as a Super.

Mr. Brown said:

"I started in as a tramp or homeless laborer in Cleveland last fall. I sought work everywhere, but was unable to find any until, seeing an advertisement in a paper for 'supers' in a show about to be put on, I applied at the theater. The advertisement called for fifty men. Several hundred applied, and I was among those accepted.

"All the supers were to be millionaire senators in the play, and I had been in the theater only a short time when I found that hardly one of the millionaire senators had enough money to buy a bed for the night."

Pay Was 50 Cents a Night.

"The next millionaire senator to me in the theater was an old man. We were to be paid about 50 cents a performance, payable at the end of the week. When the first performance was over I asked the stage manager if he could advance me enough of the wages to buy a bed, as I was penniless. The old man asked him the same thing, but the stage manager said it was impossible.

"'Where will we sleep tonight?' I asked the old millionaire senator.

"'Well,' he said, 'the Associated Charities has a woodshed where we could get a bed and breakfast for two hours of splitting curly birch, but it is 11 o'clock now and the place is closed for the night. We will have to go to the Highball saloon and sleep on the floor. That's the only place I know of.'

Slept on Saloon Floor.

"We went to this place under the hillside, and at the old man's suggestion we collected old newspapers from the trash cans as we went along the streets to cover ourselves up with as well as to lie upon. At the saloon we were admitted at midnight and were ousted at 5 o'clock the next morning. We were unable to sleep for about two hours after lying down because of loud conversation by those at the bar, and when the late drinkers had gone a small Irishman and a big Dutchman had a rough and tumble fight, and then there was a man on the verge of delirium tremens who 'saw things' all night. You can see we didn't get much sleep.

"'Where shall we wash up and get breakfast?' I asked the old 'senator' after we had been put out.

"'Oh,' he said, 'we can get a cold washup in the city lavatory.' He led the way, and we were soon in a nice, clean place, where they gave us a fresh, clean towel and soap and didn't ask pay for it.

"After the washup the old 'senator' suggested that we try the Charities' woodyard, and though we had had a supperless and sleepless night we were told that if we split curly birch for an hour we could have breakfast. There was no help for it, and, weak as we were, we had to do it. After more than an hour at work we were called to a breakfast of something like oatmeal soup and a piece of hard bread and a black fluid which was miscalled coffee. There was almost no nourishment in it.

"For the next night the old man, unable to sleep in the saloon again, found a barn and told me about it. We slept there, and I came near freezing to death."

In Various Cities.

Mr. Brown found conditions even worse in Cincinnati, while Louisville, Memphis, Mobile, Houston and Dallas, the last city he visited, and most of the other southern cities are equally without facilities for sheltering the penniless stranger no matter how worthy.

It is Mr. Brown's purpose to sail for Europe to learn how Germany has provided for the homeless, but he'll do no tramping there.

THE SOLDIER.

The soldier! meek the title, yet divine;
Therefore, with reverence, as with wild acclaim,
We fain would honor in exalted line
The glorious lineage of the glorious name;
The Soldier—lo, he ever was, and is,
Our country's high custodian, by right
Of patriot blood that brims that heart of his
With fiercest love, yet honor infinite.

The Soldier—within whose inviolate care
The nation takes repose—her inmost fane
Of freedom ever has its guardian there,
As have her forts and fleets on land and main;
The Heavenward Banner, as it ripples stream
In happy silken meshes ever sifts the gleam
Of sunshine on its sentinel below.

The Soldier! why, the very utterance
Is music—as of rallying bugles, blent
With blur of drums and cymbals and the chants
Of battle hymns that shake the continent—
The thunder chorus of a world is stirred
To awful, universal jubilee—
Yet ever through it, pure and sweet, are heard
The prayer of womanhood and infancy.

* * * * * * * *

And even so, the Soldier slept—our own!—
The Soldier of our plaudits, flowers and tears,
O this memorial of bronze and stone—
His love shall outlast this a thousand years!
Yet, as the towering symbol bids us do,
With soul saluting, as salutes the hand,
We answer as the Soldier answered to
The Captain's high command.
